

THE FREE PRESS.

THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1831.

The general Election Law has passed the House of Delegates. It provides that the election for Congress and the General Assembly shall be held, this year, in the month of August—in all years to come, in the month of April.

FLOUR, on Saturday last, in Baltimore, was selling from wagons at $6 12 to 6 25 per barrel. In Alexandria, on the same day, $6 16 to 6 20.

The National Intelligencer, of April 2, says—“Since the water was let into the Canal, that is, within the last ten days, something like thirty thousand barrels of flour have passed through the Canal, not to speak of other articles.”

At the recent Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, held in Washington city, the following appointments of Preachers were made for the CUMBERLAND DISTRICT.

G. MORRIS, P. E.
Cumberland—T. H. W. Moore.
Woodstock—G. W. Humphreys, John V. Rigdon.
Winchester—Charles A. Davis.
Do. circuit—F. McCartney, Joseph Rowan.
Jefferson—Wm. Monroe, Tobias Riley.
Berkeley—Robert Caldwell, Wm. B. Edwards.
Albany—T. Larkin, C. Hartman.
Bedford—H. Best, J. H. Henshaw.
Clear Spring—Jas. Reed, or N. P. Cunningham.
Traugh Creek—Amos Smith.

The Richmond Enquirer of Thursday last, remarks—“The table of the House of Delegates is almost empty of all its important Bills. On Wednesday, for instance, a variety of them was acted upon; and it may be safely said, that the House has not now more than 5 or 6 days' business before it.”—But thinks, however, the Legislature will not rise sooner than the 15th or 20th April, the Senate having as yet made but little progress towards a decision on the Judiciary Bill.

No papers or letters received at this office from Richmond, later than Thursday last. This is not the first time a failure has taken place lately in the mails from that city; and we are inclined to think the fault does not lie beyond Washington.

It will be seen by a paragraph on our first page, that the great bank robber in New-York has been taken. The balance of the money, about 70 thousand dollars, has not yet been discovered.

A Methodist Preacher was arrested last week, in Massachusetts, on suspicion of being the robber of the Bank in New-York. He was pursued by some of the Yankee “knowing ones,” about twenty miles; and when overtaken, all hearts were clated at the size of his saddle-bags—all were made rich at once, with the reward of ten thousand—but there are many “slips,” and judge of their disappointment, when the “great villain’s” travelling budgets were found to contain—not bank notes—but packages of religious tracts!

The Secretary of the Navy is at present on a visit to Halifax county, North Carolina.

The whole population of the United States, according to the returns received of the late census, will exceed thirteen millions.

Judge COALTER has resigned his seat as Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Mr. Caleb C. Ore, boot and shoe-maker of Philadelphia, has invented a new method of manufacturing boots and shoes, for which he is about to obtain a patent. The invention consists in manufacturing these articles with but one seam; that of the boots, in the heel; in the shoes, over the instep.

The following communication comes from a responsible and highly respectable source. We regret the existence of the evils which prompted the writer to use such unfavorable language in regard to our community; but really there is so much truth in the picture he draws of the state of things here at this time, that we cannot hesitate in giving place to his remarks. As public journalists, it is our duty to expose vice, and to endeavor to better the condition of society; and if this purpose can be accomplished by giving our feeble aid in exposing the actors in these midnight revels, we would be wrong in withholding it. We, as well as the writer, do not wish to ensure the town authorities, yet we think too much lenity has been shown towards those who would fain be called gentlemen. These officers we know are the lovers of peace and good order, but we think the time has arrived when they should come forward and teach these “privileged gentry,” that forbearance is no longer a virtue.

FOR THE FREE PRESS.
Mr. Editor—One would naturally suppose, that in a village of so small a population as Charlottesville, whose inhabitants too, are, in general, rather of the sedate and quiet sort, that peace and good order would be its prevailing characteristics.—But this is by no means the case. On the contrary, no town or village in the whole Commonwealth, is so notorious for every species of disorder, as Charlottesville. Its nocturnal disturbances are almost without example. The arm of the civil authority having been, for a number years past, almost extraordinarily relaxed, the vicious and dissolute have imagined themselves to be licensed to commit every outrage, and accordingly, as reasonably may be supposed, they have, with impunity, put all order and decency to flight. Until the past winter, these disturbances were confined almost exclusively to the blacks. Yes! strange as it may appear, to the blacks! The quiet of this town has been in open day, and at the dead hour of the night, disturbed by the drunken yells and brutal revellings of the blacks,—and yet, the arm of the civil officer was too weak and nerveless to suppress them. But let that pass: my business is not with the ministers of the law. They are “honorable men,” and doubtless have good reasons for their apparent inaction.

I have said, that until recently, the outrages complained of, have been confined to the negroes. Of late, however, the whites have been engaged, and in some instances, participated with the blacks, in these nocturnal disturbances. The sleighing season during the past winter, introduced new actors on the stage, and the rest and sleep of our citizens were interrupted by the disorderly of all colors.—Even the languishing bed of sickness was not exempted from their profane and savage orgies. When the town was deficient in a due quantity of proper materials, the country contributed its generous aid, and on many a night last winter, the streets of this town seemed to be the audience-chamber of Pandemonium. Very recently, only Saturday night last, we were gratified, as a matter of favor, with the classical revellings of a superior order. It is to this special occasion, Mr. Editor, which I wish to call your attention.

On that night, a squad of exclusives, said to be young gentlemen, that is, white young gentlemen, or young white gentlemen, which ever the correct phrase may be, delighted the natives of our town, the whole night, aye, the whole night long, with their gentlemanly recreations. Can we simple grown up people—so sober sided, old-fashioned folks, be too thankful for the flattering attentions of these polite and accomplished young gentlemen? It is so genteel, when warmed with punch, to roam through the streets and alleys of town, yelling like Indians—it is so polite and proper to strew the streets with boxes and benches, to knock and thump upon the doors and houses, and in divers other ways to keep the good people of the town awake! How can we compensate these young gentlemen for their respectful care of our slumbers, and for the wholesome example they set our children? For my part, I know not what adequate return can be made them. Their favours are far beyond our poor deserts, and we shall not be able, I fear, to render them a sufficient recompense, unless indeed, we can prevail upon our vigilant civil authorities to provide for them suitable lodgings for a short time in the Palace, opposite the market-house, at the public expense. There shut out, as they would be, from the contemplation of all vulgar things, they would have ample leisure to ruminate upon the reward which ever attends worth and merit, and to make new resolves for the future.

But to be grave—I ask, if no sense of shame will restrain the young men of our town and neighbourhood from deporting themselves in the disgraceful manner which characterized them on Saturday night last? I ask, if they will again, in violation of the rules which regulate the conduct of gentlemen, so debase and degrade themselves, as to compel the considerate part of the community to exclude them from respectable society? Let them beware! When the withering frown of the virtuous and the good once falls upon a hapless youth, his after life will be one of shame; and though his expectations and promise were as bright as the morning star, he will go down in melancholy ruin to the grave. Will these young gentlemen compel us to fix the brand upon them? In mercy let us hope not.

A PLAIN MAN.

MARRIED.
